

Kids Beginners Cosplay Creation

At Lakeland Village Community Center

Basic Cosplay Helmet

Wednesdays 1 pm to 3 pm

July 20 and 27

- ✓ Class 1: Design and pattern creation, cutting and gluing foam or other material
- ✓ Class 2: Painting & Details

Registration Deadline : July 13th

Starting with a basic bucket helmet, determine your own variations for your design. Make it medieval or sci-fi. You will be creating with foam and will be using art supplies or recycled items to make it uniquely yours.

Basic Cosplay Weapon

Fridays 1 pm to 3 pm

July 22 and 29

- ✓ Class 1: Design and pattern creation, Cutting and gluing foam or cardboard
- ✓ Class 2: Painting and details. Character presentations, photos

Registration Deadline : July 15th

Starting with basic PVC pieces, create a weapon for your character that will highlight their powers or skills. You will be creating with foam and cardboard or anything else that you think will work.

This is a beginners level class for those that have always wanted to learn cosplay creations but didn't know where to start.

Participants will be encouraged to determine their own backstory for their character and are encouraged to create their own costumes at home to go with their helmet and weapon. The final class will focus on those characters and what they created to bring those characters to life.

This course will be open to kids 12 and up as it does require the use of cutting tools and rubber cement (under the supervision and assistance of 2 adults). Participation will be limited to 12 kids per class and you must enroll for all 4 classes. Your child must be able to follow instructions and understand the general safety needs of working with or near glue and sharp objects. Any child not following instructions will be subject to being sent home and cancelled from the workshops without possibility of a refund. You will be required to sign a waiver with your registration.

An artist from Lake Elsinore, Matthew Sandoval originally started making art at a young age, from drawing to sculpting, up through high school.

He joined STUDIO 395 as a volunteer in 2019 and taught a class in model making before being brought on to the newest project at the time, Galactic Embassy. He contributed a good portion to that project, from creating the majority of the creatures, the entire band, the music for said band, and even the logo for the project used in marketing.

Matthew has also done personal projects, from painting miniature sculptures to kit-bashing and doing commissions as well. Matthew's personal projects can be viewed on IG at @jurassic_matthew or he can be reached at matthew@studio395.org.

Each class is $50 for the 2 week course

Or take both classes for $80
